

Honors Seminars for Presidential Scholars

Each Honors Seminar is 1 credit hour and is an Honors Learning Experience.

HON 102A17: Honors Mindset Seminar

Fall semester of freshman year.

Students investigate theories of learning and the Honors Program Learning Framework during a series of activities and discussions. Students begin collecting evidence of learning through the construction of electronic portfolios with digital badges.

The following seminars can be taken in any order and may be taken as early as spring of freshman year. Completion of all three seminars is a graduation requirement.

HON 202A75: Interdisciplinary Investigations

Fall 2017:

Art + Resistance

Rose Marshack; Associate Professor of Arts Technology

Previous Topics:

Arts, Creativity, and Society

Dr. James Major; Dean Emeritus, College of Fine Arts

Civic Engagement for Life

Dr. Jan Patterson; Interim Director of Civic Engagement

Dr. Erin Thomas; Director of Assessment & Engagement Initiatives

Data Analytics in the Political Process

Dr. Steve Hunt; Director, School of Communication

Dr. Lance Lippert; Associate Professor, School of Communication

Humanities and Technology

Dr. Jim van der Laan; Professor, Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

HON 202A76: Inquiry and Innovation

This course challenges students to study and explore inquiry from several perspectives. Critical inquiry as an academic pursuit, inquiry involved in traditional and novel research methods, problem-solving, and innovative questioning will be explored. Students apply these perspectives by exploring real-life problems and developing solutions.

HON 202A77: Leadership in Action

This course encourages students to identify and analyze effective qualities of successful leaders and facilitates an applied leadership experience.